DEATH, SORROW and INDIAN DEPREDATION

"FRANK" FRANCIS JOHNSON (1812-1867), born in Illinois, was the son of JAMES JOHNSON, SR. of VIRGINIA.

In 1834, "FRANK" FRANCIS JOHNSON married "BETSY" ELIZABETH TOWNSEND in HOUSTON COUNTY, TEXAS where they lived for the next fifteen years.

In 1850, they moved to BIENVILLE PARISH, LOUISIANA to live near FRANK'S family.

FRANK'S brother, LEWIS JOHNSON was killed in the BATTLE OF THE ALAMO in 1836. His father, JAMES JOHNSON, SR., as heir and next of kin to LEWIS JOHNSON, inherited his son's properties.

In 1853, JAMES JOHNSON, SR. received his son LEWIS' BOUNTY and HEADRIGHT LANDS in TEXAS, which he divided amongst his children, "FRANK" FRANCIS JOHNSON, James Johnson, Jr., William J. Johnson, and a daughter Jane (Johnson) Reeves.

FRANK'S sister, JANE (JOHNSON) REEVES and her husband Greene Reeves of HAYS COUNTY, TEXAS, had a daughter LEANNAH. LEANNAH REEVES married BRITTON JONES and they had a daughter MATILDA JANE JONES, second wife of JOHN S. FRIEND.

MATILDA JANE (JONES) and her husband BRITTON JONES settled in LEGION VALLEY, LLANO COUNTY, TEXAS.

LEGION VALLEY, LLANO COUNTY, TEXAS, in the late 1850's was a pretty vale located below CEDAR MOUNTAIN, where clear rippling streams meandered through grassy meadows and wooded glens and game of all kinds abounded in the greatest of quantity.

REV. JONAH DANCER, a Methodist Minister, was one of the first settlers in the beautiful valley. He selected a pleasant spot on SANDY CREEK, next to a spring, to build a log house and a church. (DANCER SPRING was originally called HARDBUTTER SPRING.)

Soon other settlers were attracted to the area, and the sound of ax and hammer could be heard across the valley as pioneers constructed their log cabins.

For several years these hardy pioneers lived in peace and happiness.

Around 1858, "FRANK" FRANCIS JOHNSON, along with his father and several friends from HOUSTON COUNTY, TEXAS and LOUISIANA, moved with their familes to LEGION VALLEY.

Among these friends and related families settling near the DANCER FAMILY were JOHN S. FRIEND of HOUSTON COUNTY, TEXAS, the Matthew Doyal Family, the William Gamel family, the families of Joseph and Jesse Walker, and ELIJAH "LIGE" MODGLING, our direct ancestor.

ELIJAH "LIGE" MODGLING and his wife, ANN PERMELLIA "PUSS" JOHNSON, daughter of "FRANK" and BETSY JOHNSON had married in CLAIBORNE PARISH, LOUISIANA.

Tennessee Jane Dancer, sister of Rev. Jonah Dancer, married John S. Friend, son of Rev. Leonard S. Friend of Houston County, Texas. Tenessee (Dancer) Friend died in childbirth and her widowered husband John S. Friend married Matilda Jane Jones, (niece once removed) of "FRANK" FRANCIS JOHNSON.

COMANCHE MOON

A full moon, called the "COMANCE MOON" by the setters, brought fear of death by torture at the hands of the marauding Indians.

ASA JOHNSON, son of BETSY and "FRANK' FRANCIS JOHNSON stated; 'When I was a small child, my father moved from HOUSTON COUNTY, TEXAS to LLANO COUNTY, TEXAS, then the extreme frontier. Indians were plentiful and, in the light of the moon every month, they came forth from their mountain retreats to harry settlers, pillaging, and when the opportunity presented, murdering.

The Indians seldom made an open attack where they were apt to be opposed by white men with firearms, but rather skulked about until they could discover an unarmed white man abroad or a white woman or child a short distance from home.

Sometimes, when they were well assured that the men were at a safe distance, they would fall upon settlements and isolated cabins and kill or carry away the women and children and steal the horses and cattle and such movables as they took a fancy to."

Ancestry

On May 23, 1859, Rev. Jonas Dancer and others in the community were to meet at a certain point to cut out a new road from the town of LLANO, to the City of AUSTIN, about sixteen miles away.
Always punctual, Rev. Dancer arrived at the meeting spot with tools in hand ahead of the others. After hobbling a couple of horses nearby, he proceeded to work by himself when he was attacked by a party of five or six Indians. Being unarmed, he fled to a deep ravine, closely pursued by the savages who attempted to rope him but failed. Having reached the bed of the ravine, the Indians rushed up to the bluffs overlooking the place and poured a volley of arrows into the body of Rev. Dancer.
Finally overcome from loss of blood from the wounds, he walked around in front of a projecting rock in the bluff and sat down on a rock bench, and there he died.
The savages came upon him and scalped and mutilated his body. Thus he was found the following day by a search party who delivered his body to his sorrowing wife and children.
KIMBLE COUNTY, TEXAS
"FRANK" FRANCIS JOHNSON, at the age of 53, had a long white beard and hair and was patriachial in appearance. In the spring of 1863, he left LEGION VALLEY, LLANO COUNTY, TEXAS TERRITORY. Loading his family and belongings into a covered wagon and, driving a herd of cattle, he joined a wagon train going to KIMBLE COUNTY, TEXAS. There, in the northeast corner of the county, near the MASON COUNTY, TEXAS line, he made his home on LITTLE SALINE CREEK.
On October 12, 1867, FRANK FRANCIS JOHNSON went out on the range in the morning to look after his stock and he did not return. Alarmed over his absence, his wife BETSY ELIZABETH (TOWNSEND) JOHNSON, sent out a search party to find him.
ASA JOHNSON, (son of FRANK and BETSY JOHNSON) stated: "My father was killed by Indians when he grew careless and one morning ventured out without his gun to hunt his horses. The Indians who had concealed themselves in the tall grass, ran him down and killed him with their arrows and scalped him. The body was found several miles from our home the next morning. It was full of arrow holes".
WILL JOHNSON, (grandson of FRANK and BETSY JOHNSON) stated: "My grandfather was riding a good mare, and the Indians surprised him in the woods and shot the mare from under him. He had no gun with him and grandmother said she guessed that was the only time my grandfather ever went away from home without his gun."
JERRY DOYAL, who viewed the body of FRANK FRANCIS JOHNSON said; "The scalp from all the front part of the head had been taken."
BETSY JOHNSON in fearing for the safety of her children, ranging in age of 2 years to 12 years, loaded her family and possessions into an ox-driven wagon and headed for BLUFF CREEK in MASON COUNTY, TEXAS where she stayed a short while with her son "BABE" THOMAS JOHNSON.
Plans were made for BETSY JOHNSON to live with a married daughter, the W. A. "JACK" BRADFORD'S of LEGION VALLEY, LLANO COUNTY, TEXAS. The JOHNSON'S were related, directly and in directly, to most of the people in the small LEGION VALLEY settlement.
The BRADFORD'S lived in a log house in a grove of oak trees near LEGION CREEK in LEGION VALLEY, about a mile and a half northeast of the home of JOHN S. FRIEND on DANCER SPRING.
The property at DANCER SPRING had changed hands twice since the death of Rev. Jonas Dancer, and the Friend family had lived there for just one month in February of 1868 when BETSY JOHNSON came by to visit them on her way to the BRADFORD'S.
The following narration, by MATILDA JANE (JONES) FRIEND, wife of JOHN S. FRIEND, was recorded by GEORGE GREEN REEVES; (Matilda Jane Friend was a niece of "FRANK", FRANCIS JOHNSON).
"After the death of UNCLE FRANK, (FRANK, FRANCIS JOHNSON), AUNT BETSY moved to LEGION VALLEY to better protect herself and her children from the fate of the father. Her son's wife, BECKY, (wife of "BABE" THOMAS JOHNSON), went along on the trek to Legion Valley".
VISION OF DOOM
"Nothing untoward happened enroute. Just before reaching the house of JOHN FRIEND, BECKY called AUNT BETSY'S attention to a line of smoke beginning quite a distance from the Friend's house and continuing to the door of the house.

AUNT BETSY looked and could see no smoke, nor anything that looked like smoke, and she laughed at BECKY for being so visionary. But the smoke was real to BECKY.
They stopped at the Friend's house and afterwards went to the house of JACK BRADFORD, where they made their home.
About the third of February 1868, John Friend came over to AUNT BETSY'S and asked BECKY and SAMANTHA, (wives of Babe and Boy Johnson), to come over the next evening to his house, telling them he was making an overnight trip and that he would like them to stay with his wife, MATILDA, until his return.
MATILDA JANE FRIEND, age 20, was due to have a baby in about a week.
That night, BECKY had a dream. She dreamed she was murdered by Indians and that wild hogs ate her body. The next morning she told AUNT BETSY of her dream.
Again, AUNT BETSY laughed at her for a visionary."
BECKY replied; "You may laugh at me if you choose, but that dream was too real. That dream is coming true, and that real soon."
The next day, SPENCE TOWNSEND'S wife became ill. Her baby was due and BETSY JOHNSON, the nurse and doctor in the community, was needed to assist in its arrival." (SPENCE TOWNSEND and BETSY (TOWNSEND) JOHNSON were brother and sister.)
The TOWNSEND'S sent their daughter, "MANDY" (AMANDA TOWNSEND) a platinum-haired young lady of 18 years, to ask her AUNT BETSY to come, saying that she had permission to spend the night at BETSY'S.
The following afternoon, the fifth of February, 1868, BECKY and SAMANTHA JOHNSON took their babies and, accompanied by MANDY TOWNSEND and a little eight-year-old relative, MELINDA CAUDEL, who was living with BETSY, went to the home of JOHN and MATILDA FRIEND on DANCER SPRING to stay with his wife MATILDA.
About sundown, BECKY saw a number of horsemen coming toward the FRIEND'S house, winding down the pathway exactly as she had seen that trail of smoke previously, and to her horror, she and her companions counted sixteen Indians and one negro.
BECKY advised that they flee for life, but MATILDA FRIEND said that they had not a chance on earth to get away from that horde of savages, and advised that they run into the house and barricade the door."
LEGION VALLEY MASSACRE, February 5th and 6th, 1868, LEGION VALLEY, LLANO COUNTY, TEXAS TERRITORY:
MATILDA (JONES) FRIEND, wife of JOHN S. FRIEND, and his two children, Florence age 11 and LEE TEMPLE FRIEND age 8, lived in LEGION VALLEY, LLANO COUNTY, TEXAS.
They made their home in a log house located about fifteen miles south of the town of LLANO on what was generally called the DANCER RANCH.
In 1868, JOHN FRIEND, a cattle rancher, had lived in LEGION VALLEY for eight years, of which the prior year of 1867, he had been much troubled by marauding Indians.
JOHN FRIEND: "In March Indians stole six head of horses worth $115. each and, in April they carried away a fine black mare worth $250. and, in June they took five head of other horses worh $60., and one iron-gray mule worth $150."
It was well known among the frontiersmen that the Comanche Indians seldom attacked a house where there was at least a show of resistance. When an attack was made, it was when the Indians knew the inhabitants were powerless to defend themselves.
Thus, JOHN FRIEND kept on hand for protection a Spencer rifle, a double barrel shot gun, and a Navy six shooter.
On February 04, 1868, a heavy rain fell, followed by an extreme cold front and snowfall. Because the whole country was locked in frigid cold, and the Indians had not been seen in the area for several weeks, the settlers were thrown entirely off their guard and relaxed their usual watchfulness, resulting in one of the most inhuman butcheries ever to mark Texas history.
BETSY ELIZABETH (TOWNSEND) JOHNSON, widowed just four months prior, when her husband FRANK FRANCIS JOHNSON was killed and scalped by Indians in KIMBLE COUNTY, TEXAS, had moved with some of her children back to LLANO COUNTY to live with her daughter and husband, the W. A. "JACK" BRADFORD'S.

The BRADFORD'S lived in a log house located in a grove of oak trees near LEGION CREEK, about a mile and a half from the home of JOHN FRIEND on Sandy Creek.
MATILDA FRIEND: "On the morning of February 05, 1868, ASA "BOY" JOHNSON and other Llano men started out to Austin with a drove of hogs.
About the 3rd of February, other men of the community left the neighborhood on matters of business, and on this date, my husband (JOHN FRIEND) came over to BETSY'S and asked BECKY and SAMANTHA JOHNSON, (wives of BABE and BOY JOHNSON), to come over the next evening to our house, as I was in delicate condition, and telling them that he was making a trip to Fredericksburg, and that he would like for them to stay until his return.
My husband and BETSY'S boy Frank, almost a grown man, left for Fredericksburg. In the afternoon, BECKY and SAMANTHA took their babies and, accompanied by MANDY TOWNSEND, (18 year old niece of MELINDA CAUDEL, who was staying with BETSY), wended their way to our house to stay with me.
JOHN FRIEND: "On the morning of February 05, 1868, about nine o'clock, I started from my house with a two-horse team and wagon, intending to go to the lumber yard in the town of Fredericksburg, about 25 miles away.
I planned to be absent until the evening of the 6th day of February.
My daughter, Florence E. Friend, was taken to Mountain City, a small community of Hays County, Texas.
My little eight year old boy, LEE TEMPLE FRIEND, was in the company with two married women, the wives of two brothers by the name of JOHNSON living near, who were also away from home, and a young lady about 18 years old who was related to the JOHNSON'S. Each of the married women had a child about a year and a half to three years old with them.
WILL JOHNSON: (son of BABE JOHNSON, grandson of BETSY (TOWNSEND) JOHNSON) My grandmother lived about a mile from the John Friend's. I was only five years old, but I remember hearing many times of how Mr. Friend came over to our house to get my mother, (BECKY, REBECCA JOHNSON) and my aunt (SAMANTHA JOHNSON), to spend the night with his wife while he was away, as were my father (BABE JOHNSON) and uncle (BOY JOHNSON.)
My little brother James and I stayed with my grandmother and for some reason did not go along, though I am sure we wanted to go.
My mother took my baby sister, (three year old Nancy Elizabeth Johnson), along and my aunt took her little girl also. This was February 04, 1868.
A little before sundown, the children were snow-balling in the yard of the Friend's house".
MATILDA FRIEND: MALINDA, a little girl about eight years old, came running into the house saying that somebody was taking "Button", a pony hobbled about two hundred yards from the house.
We three women at once went out and by climbing up onto the fence by the cow pens, saw one Indian unhobbling the pony and soon mounted him and rode off into a southwesterly direction.
In a very few minutes he returned with about fourteen other Indians, all riding their horses at a gallop, and made a charge upon the house.
If the ladies on that fatal day at the Friend home had remained calm, cool and quiet behind closed doors, the tragedy of Legion Valley may never have occurred.
The children raised the shout of alarm and fled screaming into the houe. The ladies, at the same time, rushed into the yard to assist some of the smaller children in their flight.
When they were indoors, all the women, except Matilda Friend, were more panic stricken than the children, and almost crazed with fright.
Matilda latched the door and hastened to secure a window which was in the rear of the cabin.
During this time, the Indians had drawn nearer to the house and, ascertained, from hearing the screams of the frightened women inside, that there were no men on the premises".
MATILDA FRIEND: "The Indians rode past the house a few yards and then returned to the house and dismounted, part of them holding the horses and the others broke open the door.
There was two guns in the house. I gave one of the women a double barrel shotgun and instructed her to shoot when the door was broken in, but the woman was too shocked and frightened to act, and I then took the gun and endeavered to frighten the Indians away from the door".

By this time the Indians had broken the shutter from the fastenings and were crawling in at the rear window. As the door gave way, the Indians rushed in and Matilda raised her gun and attempted to shoot the Indian nearest her.
MATILDA FRIEND: "The Indian who was in the lead, jumped into the house and took the gun from me and threw it out the door. At the same time he drew his bow and shot an arrow into my left side".
Miraculously, the arrow missed the full-term baby Matilda carried.
Seizing a flat-iron, the nearest weapon at hand, Matilda bravely dealt one of the Indians a blow that sent him realing to the floor.
An Indian near the doorway drew an arrow from his quiver and shot Matilda in the arm, and a second arrow from his bow struck her in the breast, and she fell to the floor.
After receiving the third wound, being unable to make further resistance, Matilda calmly took her seat upon a bed and leaned her head against a bed post.
MATILDA FRIEND: "I fell over on the bed and feigned death. The Indians captured the other women and children and led them out of the house to where the rest of the Indians were holding the horses.
BECKY was fighting like a tigress, but all to no avail.
The Indians then returned to the house and dragged me from the bed and then proceeded to rob the house of everything they could carry away.
The Indians took all the bedding. They carried the feather beds and straw ticks out into the yard and tore them open, poured their contents and carried away the cloth.
The Indians came into the house and, finding me lying upon the floor face downward, and supposing me dead, scalped me twice.
This gave me such excruciating pain that I threw up my hand and caught hold of the knife".
The Indian, in pulling the knife through her hand, cut it severly.
In attempting to seize the knife the second time, the Indian dealt her three blows which completely disabled her.
The savage then finished the operation of scalping at his leisure and left the poor woman for dead.
From where she lay on the floor, Matilda Friend could see the Indians through the open doorway. She saw them force their captives to mount behind their captors, each of the JOHNSON women had a young babe. These were carried away by the Indians behind which the mothers were forced to ride.
When all were mounted and apparently ready to set off, Matilda noticed one of the Indians returning to the house. She placed herself in exactly the same position as she was in while being scalped.
To make sure his victim was dead, the Indian grabbed the arrow sticking in Matilda's breast, which had gone entirely through her body, and gave it several severe jerks backward and forward, to see if she would flinch.
Matilda never made a motion, never groaned, never batted an eye, for to do so meant certain death.
Matilda, a level-headed girl of twenty years, fiercely determined to survive the savage attack and save her unborn infant.
MATILDA FRIEND: 'I remained conscious and as if lifeless through this painful torture."
Satisfied that his victim was dead, the Indian left.
Upon hearing the cries of her friends, Matilda Friend crawled to a small opening in the wall and saw the Indians and their captive women and children upon the horses move away in an easterly direction.
As far as she could see them, BECKY was still fighting.
Matilda Friend tried to remove the arrows piercing her body, but the spikes on one end and the feathers on the other prevented her from doing so.
As the men were not expected home until that evening, Matilda decided to leave her house and seek help at the home of her nearest neighbor, W. A. "Jack" Bradford.
MATILDA FRIEND: "After the departure of the Indians, I got up and went to a neighbor's house about a mile and a half away."
When the Indians were out of sight, Matilda bound a cloth over her head and, wounded as she was, went out into the yard and gathered up what few things the Indians had discarded of her household goods, put them back into the house, and closed the door.
Weak from loss of blood, Matilda Friend, walking and crawling, dragged her bleeding form from her now desolate house.

With snow, which had fallen during the day, she slaked her thirst and bathed her face which was covered with blood, and the snow also served to stauch the flow of blood from her lacerated hand.
It was sunset when Matilda started out for the Bradford's and she reached there about eight o'clock at night, once crossing the trail of the Indians, for the route they took was not far from the Bradford's home.
As she approached the Bradford's house, Matilda's presence was made known to the family by the fierce barking of the dogs. It was dark when she fell exhausted at the Bradford's door.
Bradford came out of the house and not knkowing who it was in the darkness, ran back into the house. A terrible sight she was, wounded, scalped and bleeding.
Matilda called to him, told him who she was, and he came to her aid and supported her into the house.
Feebly she told of the Indian attack on her house and her awful experience and she begged Bradford to extract the arrow from her bosom.
Bradford, very much frightened, tried to remove the cruel shaft but failed in the effort.
He heaped wood in the fireplace, placed the wounded lady on a pallet before the fire, and set a bucket of water within her reach.
Gathering his own family, Bradford fled from the house, seeking concealment in the nearest cedar brake, leaving Matilda all night alone, two miles from any other house.
About eight o'clock in the morning, BETSY (TOWNSEND) JOHNSON, the nurse of the community, and another widow lady, came to Matilda's relief.
The cloth on her head had dried and stuck so fast to the wound that it could only be removed by the use of hot water. Her whole body was so swollen from her terrible injuries tht it was with great difficulty her clothes were taken off.
These benevolent ladies did all they could for her relief, but it was nearly eight o'clock in the evening before a physician arrived to dress her wounds.
WILL JOHNSON: "With an arrow through her side, Mrs Friend made her way to my grandmother's. We got a doctor that night and early the next morning the arrow was pulled out."
During the night of February 6th, the same day as the Indian's attack on the Friend house, a runner arrived in the town of Llano, sixteen miles distance, announcing the tragic affair.
Every man who could possibly go, hastened to the scene of the awful occurrence. A physician also went to the relief of Matilda.
JOHN FRIEND: "I returned to my ranch about midnight on Febaruary 6th and learned my wife had been scalped and was almost dead."
It was late at night when the men arrived from the town of Llano. They had to wait until the morning of February 6th to see the trail, thirty six hours after the Indians had left.
MATILDA CAUDLE BENSON: "It was late in the evening of February 6th when the Indians started with us from Mrs. Friend's house.
It was cloudy and cold. There were two or three squaws with the Indians and one of these took me behind her and was very kind to me. She drew a blanket around me and I didn't suffer much from the cold."
BERTIE OMA (CRISP) MODGLING: "Malinda Caudel was eight years old when she was taken by the Indians. She had chills and fever when they took her. She told me that the Indians stopped by a corn field and went out there and got some shucks. They boiled the shucks and made her drink the water. That broke the fever and she felt good from then on.
Then there was this single girl, TOWNSEND. They didn't have a horse for her to ride so she walked."
MELINDA (CAUDLE) BENSON: "The first night we camped on the northwest side of a small mountain not a great way from the Friend place. We found shelter from the cold wind in a cedar brake where they kept up a good fire all night.
My squaw slept with me and from that time on, as long as I stayed with the Indians, she was my adoped mother and always treated me as her own child.
The others did not fare so well.
Just before we went into camp that first evening, (Samantha), Mrs. Boy Johnson's baby began to cry for its mother, who was riding behind the Indian who was carrying the child in his arms.

He choked the child to make it hush. Mrs. Johnson (Samantha) then tried to take her child away fromt the Indian and this seemed to exasperate him to the extent that he took the little one by an ankle and dashed its brains out against a tree.
I can't begin to tell you of the shame and horrors Miss Townsend and the two Mrs. Johnson's suffered at the hands of those savage brutes all that awful night.
They cried and prayed all the time and they knew they were going to be murdered.
Shortly after we left camp the next morning (February 6th), they took Mrs. Babe Johnson's (Becky's) baby and cut its throat and then held it up by the feet with its head down right before her, as if to see the blood flow.
Mrs. Johnson screamed and fainted at which they all laughed as if it were great sport.
About noon they all halted and seemed undecided about something.
At last they seized the two Johnson women. I saw them draw their knives but just before then my squaw threw a blanket over my head.
That same day they killed Miss Townsend and hacked her body horribly.
MATILDA FRIEND: "There were some soldiers at Llano, about eleven miles distant. Jack (Bradford) went after them while another runner went after Asa (Boy) Johnson, and another one for my husband, John Friend."
ASA "BOY" JOHNSON: "By the following morning we had mustered eight men and started in pursuit of the Indians. I was one of the party".
The trail left by the Indians led toward Cedar Mountain.
At the foot of the mountain, about a mile and a half from the Friend home, the body of Asa and Samantha Johnson's baby girl was found in a bunch of brush, its brains beaten out and scalped.
The following morning, the body of Babe and Becky Johnson's three year old girl, Nancy Elizabeth Johnson, was found along the trail leading up the mountainside. The child's body was found lying on a large flat rock, as if asleep, throat cut from ear to ear, and scalped.
Reaching the top of the mountain, the trail led off in a southernly direction. Continuing the pursuit for some three or four miles, the party went off the mountain in Cut-Off Gap.
Here the Indians had killed some of the stock they carried with them by pushing them off a steep bluff, built a fire, roasted their meat and, from the impressions on the ground, had stayed here for a while.
In Cut-Off Gap, the body of Samantha, Mrs. Asa Boy Johnson, was found, throat cut, sclaped, stripped of nearly all her clothing.
ASA BOY JOHNSON: "The Indians had killed my wife by sticking a knife blade in the back of her neck and the hogs were eating her flesh. They took her dress with them".
One hundred yards further on, the body of Becky, Mrs. Thomas Babe Johnson, was found; throat cut, scalped, stripped nearly all her clothing, and the body half devoured by wild hogs.
At this point, the party divided, seven or eight men continuing the pursuit while the balance remained behind to bury the dead.
The trail led in a southernly direction for about seven or eight miles, where in the forks of Coal Creek, a small slip of white hair was found which Spencer Townsend believed to have come from the head of his eighteen year old daughter Amanda.
MATILDA FRIEND: "They followed on and every once in a while they found a piece of cloth on a bush that they knew as a piece of Mandy Townsend's dress."
In the afternoon of that same day, (February 7th), about seven miles from where the trail came off the mountain, and on the edge of Cut-Off Gap, the party searched for a while, discovering a foot-path leading out from the camp to a thicket about one hundred yards distant.
Spence Townsend and Orville Oatman followed the trail and they found the body of Amanda Townsend between two large rocks, partly covered with small rocks.
WILL JOHNSON: "She had been tied down upon the cold ground, which was covered with snow, and, from all appearances, had been outraged in the most brutal manner. She was killed and her body mutilated almost beyond recognition."
MATILDA FRIEND: "Every bone in her body was broken.

From appearances, each of the red devils must have taken his turn in torturing her. There were seventeen rocks by the side of her body and she was literally pounded to a pulp by these cruel monsters.
She was scalped, but the hide was taken off in small patches. I suppose so each could have a scalp lock.
The savages must have become so enraged at Mandy when they discovered she was marking the trail with strips from her dress that they concluded to beat her to death with stones."
WILL JOHNSON: "From the little tracks they had seen around the water holes on the trail, the posse knew that the Indians had the eight year old son of John S. Friend and the little girl MALINDA CAUDLE.
They continued the pursuit to near Devil's River and were a short distance behind them when, for want of food, their horses gave out and left them afoot."
Thirteen days after the horrible tragedy of Legion Valley, MATILDA FRIEND gave birth to a baby girl, BELL JANE FRIEND, born February 19, 1868 in MOUND CITY, TEXAS.
JOHN FRIEND: "I spent one thousand dollars in doctoring my wife's wounds and another three thousand by reason of her wounds."
MATILDA FRIEND recovered from her wounds and shortly after she and JOHN FRIEND moved to KANSAS.
MATILDA FRIEND lived another forty years and had six children by JOHN S. FRIEND. She died January 24, 1909, at about age 61, in El Dorado, Butler County, Kansas.
LEE TEMPLE FRIEND was held captive by the Indians for almost five years, during which time his father and grandfather, REV. LEONARD S. FRIEND, conducted a search throughout portions of Northern Texas and the Indian Territory.
REV. FRIEND made three trips to Washington, D.C. to consult with authorities at the Indian Bureau. JOHN S. FRIEND spent twenty five hundred dollars tracing the country for his son.
December 13, 1872, LEE TEMPLE FRIEND was recovered by his grandfather near Fort Sill, Indian Territory from the Comanche and Kiowa Indians, and restored to JOHN and MATILDA FRIEND the next day.
At the time of his reclamation, the boy was an Indian in every respect and could speak nothing but the Indian dialect.
LEE TEMPLE FRIEND died a year and a half later as a result of his ordeal.
MALINDA CAUDLE remained a captive of the Indians about eight months. She was recovered in the fall of 1868 by a body of U.S. Dragoons at Fort Harker, Kansas.
She was sent to Fort Leavenworth, Kansas and from there to Fort Arbuckle, then returned to her relatives in Texas.
MALINDA CAUDLE married four times and had four sons:
1. MALINDA married JIM BENSON and had two sons, JAY and MOSE BENSON.
2. MALINDA married WILLIAM F. MODGLING, son of ELIJAH "LIGE" MODGLING and ANN PERMELIA "'PUSS" (JOHNSON) MODGLING, and they had a son, HENRY MARK MODGLING born February 18, 1884, Llano, Texas. WILLIAM F. MODGLING and THOMAS J. MODGLING, husband of JENNIE BELLE (BOLT) MODGLING, were brothers.
3. MALINDA married her first husband JIM BENSON again and had a son, GREEN CAUDLE BENSON, named for MALINDA'S father.
4. MALINDA married "DOC" DANE, a traveling medicine salesman. To drum up business, MALINDA played the organ on "Doc's" medicine wagon and they gave shows and traveled around the country.
MALINDA CAUDLE began losing her sight and went blind when she was 57 years old.
Some years after the death of her husband "Doc" Dane, MALINDA stayed first with one and then another of her kinfolks, telling and re-telling the story of her colorful life and extraordinary experiences to any and all who would listen.
On March 11, 1984, BERTIE OMA (CRISP) MODGLING, age 81, daughter-in-law of WILLIAM F. MODGLING and MALINDA ANN "MINNIE" (CAUDLE) MODGLING related the following:
"MALINDA'S mother, CLEMENTINE TOWNSEND, first married WILLIAM J. JOHNSON and later married GREEN M. CAUDLE. The name is pronounced CAW'DL. Clementine's sister, BETSY ELIZABETH TOWNSEND married "FRANK" FRANCIS JOHNSON, brother of WILLIAM J. JOHNSON." (The TOWNSEND sisters married JOHNSON brothers.)

"MALINDA married this BENSON man and had two boys, JAY and MOSE. Then they divorced and she married WILLIAM J. MODGLING and produced my husband, HENRY MARK MODGLING. HENRY was born February 18, 1885, Llano, Texas".
Then they divorced and she married BENSON again and produced another son named for her father, GREEN CAUDLE BENSON.
MALINDA had four sons and did not have any daughters."
THE MEDICINE SHOW:
"Her last husband was a medicine doctor - he was an INDIAN DOCTOR. All I ever heard him called was "DOC". She played the music to draw the crowd to where Doc sold medicine. Some say he was an Indian Medicine Man.
MALINDA, my mother-in-law, stayed with us and she would sit there and talk to us and tell us things about her life and how she lived, about her family...about her mother and how brave her mother was, and the Indian fights when her mother and dad would have to fight them off.
I never knew her mother. Her parents were long gone by the time I knew her.
The only sisters I knew she had was the one carried off and killed by the Indians. (SAMANTHA JOHNSON- wife of BOY ASA JOHNSON, her first cousin), and the other one was MARY ELIZABETH JOHNSON who lived at Fredricksburg, Texas and married a man named TIM WILLIAMSON. WILLIAMSON was killed by a mob over there. SAMANTHA and MARY were half-sisters of MALINDA.
When the Indians traded MALINDA to the authorities in Kansas city, before she was brought back to AUSTIN, TEXAS, some people kept her and they gave her a doll. The folks who kept her were the U.S. Government Indian Agent and his wife at Fort Larned, Kansas.
After MALINDA married JIM BENSON and had JAY and MOSE, there was an alarm spread that the Indians were coming and for all the mothers to keep their children quiet.
And this sister, MARY, TIM WILLIAMS' wife was there. There were a lot of people there. Anyway, MALINDA was ironing and she let Jay play with the doll so he wouldn't cry and she heard the doll's head crack on a rock. She said; "JAY! THE LITTLE DEVIL BROKE MY DOLL!"
She ran out there getting after him for breaking the doll and all the others were hollering; "Oh, Malinda, don't! Don't make him scream, the Indians will come!"
She was so angry with him for breaking her doll. She said to me; "I wasn't going to take no chances with the Indians, but that doll was dear to me."
My husband, FRANKLIN THOMAS MODGLING, was born in a little old place called LEADAY, COLEMAN COUNTY, TEXAS, where me and my husband were married.
MALINDA had a quiver that belonged to SITING BULL.
It was all beaded up and was made with the leather from a calf's arm...no seams. The children all wanted it but she wouln't give it to just one since they all wanted it.
Now she and Jay's oldest boy were close when he was small.
She said she was going to give it to J.E. But after he grew up he had lots of interests and didn't pay special attention to her like he did when he was young. She said then, "Oh, J.E. doesn't care anything for me. I'm going to burn it up".
A lady from the museum in San Antonio came up to Marble Falls to examine the quiver. Mose lived in Marble Falls, Burnet County, Texas. He owned his place there and worked in the city.
At the time, the lady from the museum offered her $50. for the quiver, but she wouldn't take it.
Before she died, she told her son Mose that; "When I die I want all my stuff to be piled up and burned. I don't want anybody to have anything."
MALINDA died on March 22, 1933 in Marble Falls, Burnet County, Texas.
She had just left us, my husband and our family, and went there to stay a while. That's the way she did- stayed with one a while and then another of her kin.
That was some years after her husband Dane died.
MALINDA went blind when she was 57 years old.
Maggie, she got the paper and was reading it and said; "Look here Uncle Henry, Grandma's dead.", and handed him the paper to read.

He took off from work and came home. He laid the paper in my lap and started crying.

Any man shall be eligible to membership in the Society who, being of the age of twenty-one years or over, and a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor who aided by his loyalty to, and material service to, the cause of American Independence, either as an officer, soldier, sailor, marine, minuteman, or service man, in the armed forces of the Continental Congress, or of any one of the several Colonies or States, or as a signer of the Declaration of Independence; or as a member of a Committee of Safety or Correspondence; or as a member of any Continental, Provincial, or Colonial Congress or Legislature; or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service to assist aids or sustenance to the authority of United States. John Day, Sr., (No.) is the ancestor who assisted in

My ancestor's services in assisting in the establishment of American Independence during the War of the Revolution were as follows:

John Day, Sr., was born in Bucks County, Penn., June 30, 1742; received a commission as Ensign from the Committee of Safety of the Colony of Virginia, dated October 11, 1775, and while a resident of Botetourt County, Virginia. In the fall of 1776 he was appointed an Indian Spy and served one year and six months under Capt. Cook.

Before the soldier's military service, his brother David and their mother, who was Susan, daughter of James Willey, were killed by Shawnee Indians; his two sisters, Sallie and Martha, were taken prisoners by the same Indians, and were afterwards rescued by a party under Capt. Fry, of which the soldier John Day, Sr., was one. A son John is referred to in 1833.

As a soldier he was allowed a pension on an application executed on July 9th, 1833, while a resident of Jefferson County, Tennessee.

Margaret Caskey's mother was present at the Inauguration of George Washington and served as a flower girl.
